Election/Restriction

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

a. Species I: drawn to a method for coating a plurality of semiconductor devices, comprising: removing the cured or treated coating material with the embedded semiconductor devices from the formation cavity by releasing the film and the upper and lower sections from the coating material and the semiconductor devices leaving the coating material uncovered, claims 13 and 15-19 read on Species I.

b. Species II: drawn to a method for coating a plurality of LEDs, comprising: removing the cured or treated matrix material and the embedded LEDs from the formation cavity by detaching the upper and lower sections from the matrix material and the embedded LEDs, leaving the matrix substantially uncovered and the contact uncovered by the matrix material accessible for electrical connection, claims 33 and 35-37 read on Species II.

c. Species III: drawn to a method for coating a plurality of semiconductor chips, comprising: mounting a plurality of semiconductor chips within said mold formation cavity directly to at least one of said upper and lower sections;, claims 38-41 read on Species III.

The species are independent or distinct because claims to different species recite mutually exclusive characteristics of such species. In addition, these species are not obvious variants of each other based on the current record.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently there is no generic claim.

There is an examination and search burden for these patentably distinct species due to their mutually exclusive characteristics. Furthermore, the species require a different text searches, and the prior art applicable to one species is not applicable to another species.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
